

Attacks Started on Reorganization in Assembly, Senate

Nelson Clashes With Leaders of Two Other Parties

ACTION PUSHED Progressives Lose in First Attempts to Win Delays

Madison—(P)—The state senate fought the battle of the 1937 special session all over again today as the Republican-Democratic majority moved swiftly to kill the governmental reorganization changes made during the LaFollette administration.

Floor leaders of the old parties tangled with Progressive Leader Philip E. Nelson, made when he objected to immediate public hearing of a resolution by Senator Kenneth White, (R), River Falls, to repeal 26 reorganization shifts made by executive order.

Nelson proposed to delay the hearing from 2 o'clock p. m. today until Tuesday and urged consideration of the Riser bill to extend the time when the legislature may pass upon the orders from 10 to 100 days.

When the Progressives were defeated on both attempts, 18 to 11, Nelson angrily charged the new administration is attempting to wipe out all departments and re-enact them on a "pie counter" basis.

"Mandate" To Voters Democratic Leader Harry Bolens, Port Washington, jumped to his feet and yelled:

"The voters on Nov. 8 gave a mandate that the whole thing be wiped out. If there is anything worth while in these orders bring in your bills and let them be heard."

White contended the powers delegated to former Governor LaFollette were unconstitutional and the drafters of the constitution were "far-sighted enough to see this twentieth century would be afflicted with a Phil LaFollette."

He said each of the executive orders can be challenged in the courts and the state put to the expense of innumerable law suits.

A speech by Senator Nelson, asserting there had been public reorganization under the rule changes of the special session under which legislation was pushed through, touched off the fireworks. He asked the new senate to take its time and give the reorganization act careful consideration.

Commerce Bureau Hit Senator Maurice Cockley, (R), Beloit, replied that Nelson participated in the passage of the reorganization bill and that it was railroaded through a hearing in which only 10 minutes was allotted for each side.

In addition to the White resolution bills were introduced by Senator Bolens for outright repeal of the reorganization act, including those departments reorganized by separate provisions of law, and by Senator Taylor G. Brown, (R), Oshkosh, to abolish the new department of commerce. Similar proposals were offered in the assembly.

A fourth measure was a bill by Senator Fred Riser, (P), Madison, designed to give the legislature more time to consider the executive orders, which the statute said could be disapproved only within 10 days from the time of the secretary of state's report. The report was submitted last night by Secretary Fred R. Zimmerman.

Riser proposed to lengthen the time to 100 days but majority leaders indicated their course already has been planned.

Senator Bolens said he asked for outright repeal because the reorganization act had been forced through the last legislature without proper consideration. He declared if there is any merit to any of the changes made they can be reinstated later.

Senator White requested prompt hearing of his resolution to veto.

SEES NAZI DEFEAT

Boston—(P)—Former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening (above) of Germany, now a lecturer at Harvard, looks for religious groups eventually to overthrow the Nazis, "but perhaps not for 10 years."

"Nothing has done the Nazi regime more harm than the persecution of the Jews," he told the Unitarian club here. "I believe the resistance to it is very widespread and even within the ranks of the Nazi party. These persecutions do not appear to even a small minority of the people and that is the only hope I have for the future of my country."

Chamberlain and Mussolini at End Of Their Talks

No New Commitment Made on Either Side, British Report

Rome—(P)—The premiers of Britain and Italy concluded their formal conversations on the future of Europe late today, and British sources said no new commitment had been made on either side.

The series of appeasement talks for which Prime Minister Chamberlain came to Rome yesterday ended with a 75-minute conference in Premier Mussolini's office.

A spokesman for Chamberlain said the conference "continued and satisfactorily finished the job begun yesterday," that of a general European survey, and each side concluded by stating its position and understanding that of the other.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano attended with the premiers.

Members of Chamberlain's party admitted that a clear idea of the view of Europe's problems and the way to solve them was all they expected to get out of the prime minister's appeasement journey to Rome.

Tomorrow will be devoted to the British statesmen's call at the Vatican, where Pope Pius will receive them in a private audience, and in a windup of social festivities. The Britons leave Saturday.

New York—(P)—The diaries of F. Donald Coster-Musica disclosed today that the masquerading head of McKesson and Robbins drug firm paid approximately $150,000 to blackmailers who knew of his criminal past, prior to his suicide last month.

House Is Asked to Dissolve WDA and Commerce Body

CATLIN OFFERS BILL Resolution Disapproves Changes Made by LaFollette

Madison—(P)—Bills designed to dissolve the Wisconsin Development Authority and the newly-created department of commerce, both products of Progressive legislation, were introduced in the assembly today.

Charles A. Budlong, Marinette Republican, offered the bill to abolish the WDA which was ruled invalid once by the supreme court. The court later reversed its ruling, but held the authority must confine its activities strictly to educational work in sponsoring public ownership of utilities. The department has an appropriation of $60,000 a year.

The bill aimed at the department of commerce, subject of several attacks by Governor Heil at the budget hearings last December, was brought to the floor by Mark Catlin, Jr., Appleton Republican.

Following the example set by the senate last night the assembly also received a resolution disapproving of former Governor LaFollette's reorganization changes, and a bill to repeal the act. The resolution was introduced by Reuben W. Peterson, (R), Berlin, and the bill by Milton Murray, (R), Milwaukee.

Curb on Pardon Powers Another measure aimed at curbing the power of the governor was a resolution introduced by Elmer Genzmer, (D), Mayville, which provides that "any incumbent governor defeated at the November election shall immediately thereafter be deprived of pardon power."

Capitol observers linked this resolution with former Governor LaFollette's pardon of his secretary, Thomas Duncan, last Dec. 24.

Leo T. Niemuth, (R), Oshkosh, introduced a bill which would amend the statutes to exempt homesteads belonging to beneficiaries of old age assistance from transfer or claim if the property is valued at $5,000 or less.

A resolution providing for an interim legislative and citizens committee to study ways and means of promoting the advancement and growth of industry and business in Wisconsin was offered by Ben G. Slater, (R), Milwaukee. The committee would include two senators, three assemblymen, and two citizens each to represent business and industry, agriculture and labor.

Lower License Fees Two bills, in line with the Republican platform plank call for reduced auto license fees. One fixes a $5 license tax for automobiles under 3,600 pounds, and $10 for cars over that weight; the other cuts the passenger car, truck, buses, motorcycles, farm trucks in half. The former measure was introduced by Niemuth, the latter by Slater.

Andrew J. Biemiller, (P), Milwaukee, and John Grobenschmidt, (P), Milwaukee, offered a bill extending the deadline for new auto license plates from Feb. 1 to March 15.

Murray also introduced a bill to amend the statutes to allow the vacancy of the late Judge John Karel to be filled at the regular judicial election next April and eliminate the necessity of a special election.

Shawano Attorney Is U. S. Commissioner

Milwaukee—(P)—E. L. Aschenbrenner, Shawano attorney, was appointed by Federal Judge F. A. Geiger today to a four-year term as United States commissioner at Shawano. Aschenbrenner succeeds James Larson, who resigned after being elected district attorney of Shawano county.

Frankfurter Is Given Senate Group Backing

Full Committee Expected To Act Within Next Few Days POPE IS CONFIRMED

Court Nominee Appears In Person Before Subcommittee

Washington—(P)—The senate confirmed by a voice vote today the nomination of former Senator James P. Pope of Idaho to be a director of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Action came after Senator Bridges (R-N. H.) had spoken against the nomination.

Bridges had planned to object to consideration of Pope's nomination today, but said he decided to withdraw his objection upon request of Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) and Republican Leader McNary (Ore.).

Also confirmed by the senate today was John W. Hanes of North Carolina to be undersecretary of the treasury, succeeding Roswell Magill, resigned.

Washington—(P)—Felix Frankfurter's nomination for the supreme court was approved today by a senate judiciary subcommittee.

The nomination now goes to the full judiciary committee for expected action within a few days. The senate then will pass on it.

Frankfurter, liberal Harvard law professor was named to succeed the late Benjamin Cardozo.

The approval came after Frankfurter had just appeared in person before the senate subcommittee.

Senator Borah (R-Idaho), first of the subcommittee members to leave the executive session, said the vote approving Frankfurter was unanimous. Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) did not attend the executive session, although he was present earlier in the day and questioned Frankfurter. The nominee testified that he had supported the rights of Ku Klux Klan members and Nazi sympathizers to enjoy constitutional guarantees of free speech and free assembly.

The 56-year-old Harvard law professor gave this testimony at a senate judiciary subcommittee hearing on his nomination for the supreme court. He outlined his connection with the American Civil Liberties union and said he consistently had insisted that all should receive equal rights under the constitution.

Frankfurter said the union frequently had consulted him on "major issues."

Under questioning by Senator Borah (R-Idaho), he continued: "Some time ago a question arose when members of the Ku Klux Klan attempted to hold a mass meeting and parade in my neighborhood city of Boston and the officials sought to stop them."

"I said of course they were entitled to the right of free speech and the right of assembly."

"Civil liberties mean liberties for those we like and those we don't like or even detest."

Mobilize All Men Between 39 and 45 To Halt Fascists

Insurgents Move Forward In Great Offensive In Catalonia

Barcelona, Spain—(P)—The Spanish government today ordered mobilization of all men between the ages of 39 and 45 in an attempt to stem the insurgents' great offensive in Catalonia.

Mobilization orders previously had included all males between the ages of 18 and 35.

All male civilians up to 50 years of age and others who are unfit for service at the front were ordered to join fortification brigades.

Fortification brigades formed earlier in the war were dissolved and their men sent to the infantry.

War industries and supplies were ordered militarized and all available armament sent immediately to the war zone.

Headline, France—(P)—The Spanish frontiers, already in sight of the Mediterranean, gathered momentum today in their downhill drive toward Tarragona, threatening to isolate government troops to the south.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's men were reported advancing southward from Montblanch, gateway to Tarragona, which fell into insurgent hands late yesterday after a combined drive by four supporting columns had swept aside government resistance around the little city of 5,000 population.

At the same time General Juan Yague's Moroccan troops went into action in the long-dormant sector of Mora de Ebro. These forces took Mora la Nueva on the west bank of the flood-swollen Ebro river and skirted to the south and east toward a junction with another column now threatening Falset.

The combined movements of General Yague's troops and those around Falset and Montblanch threatened to cut off a large slice of government territory, trapping the militia men still defending Tortosa and the region between the Ebro river and the sea.

Franco was said to control two sides of the triangle formed by Montblanch, Falset and Tarragona.

Hopkins Facing Added Questions

Will Appear Again Tomorrow Before Senate Commerce Committee

Washington—(P)—The senate commerce committee decided today to call Harry L. Hopkins again tomorrow morning or further questioning about charges of political use of WPA funds.

GRAVELY ILL

New York—(P)—The condition of Colonel Jacob Ruppert (above), owner of the world champion New York Yankee baseball team, remained unchanged today. The 71-year-old multi-millionaire brewer and real estate operator, stricken with pleuritis and a liver ailment, slept quietly through the night. His personal physician, Dr. Otto Scherdtfeffer, said last night there was no hope for Ruppert's recovery.

Illness Fatal to William H. Burns

Official of Iron Works, Prominent Lodge Man, Dies Last Evening

William H. Burns, Sr., 63, 818 E. Pacific street, associated with the Valley Iron Works company in various capacities since 1901 and a prominent lodge worker, died at 10 o'clock last evening after an illness of two months.

Mr. Burns was employed by the Valley Iron Works in 1901 as a bookkeeper and was elected secretary of the company in April, 1906, an office which he held until his death. In 1910 he was named general plant superintendent and continued in that capacity until 1920 when he was appointed sales manager. In his capacity as sales manager, Mr. Burns dealt with paper mills throughout United States and Canada and was well known to paper manufacturers.

He was a member and held various offices in the following lodges: Waverly lodge, No. 51, Appleton; Chapter 47, Warren council, Green Bay; Appleton Commandery; Consistory, Milwaukee; Tripoli temple, Milwaukee; I.O.O.F. and the United.

Cedillo, Agrarian Leader in Mexico, Is Slain in Battle

Mexico City—(P)—The war department announced today that General Saturnino Cedillo, agrarian leader who headed an unsuccessful revolt against the government last spring, was slain in battle with federal troops yesterday.

Since his revolt was quelled last May Cedillo had been a fugitive in San Luis Potosi, in which state he was almost all-powerful before President Laroza Cardenas moved his army against him.

Brigadier General Hernandez Guzman, military commander in San Luis Potosi, reported to the government that Cedillo's body, "fully identified," was found on the battlefield after a government column had dispersed a band personally commanded by the rebel leader.

District Attorney Richard G. Hanes, Jr., issued warrants charging Cedillo with six counts of misappropriating stocks and cash from Waterford widows. The hearing was adjourned to Jan. 16.

Washington—(P)—The house appropriations committee, contending that WPA rolls carry "thousands neither rightfully nor justifiably thereon," formally recommended today a $725,000,000 appropriation to keep the relief agency going until June 30.

President Roosevelt had asked $575,000,000 for WPA but that figure the committee said, "presages a continued degree of unemployment out of harmony with general recovery indications."

"Four Republican" committeemen, asserting that "a national scandal requires immediate action," went even farther. They said in a minority report that funds should be appropriated now only to keep WPA operating until April 7.

By that date, they added, there should be a basis for future conduct of relief activities, "revamped and revised."

Estimated Jobs The $875,000,000 requested by Mr. Roosevelt contemplated keeping an average of 2,870,000 persons on WPA rosters for the five months starting Feb. 1. The majority said $725,000,000 would bring WPA employment down to an average of 2,377,049 per month.

The appropriations committee approved the slash in the proposed WPA fund shortly before the bill was brought to the house floor for debate. Leaders had agreed to end.

Hitler, Diplomats Offer Thanks for 'Peace of Munich'

Fuehrer Asserts 'Natural Needs Must Sooner or Later be Acknowledged'

Berlin—(P)—Adolf Hitler and the Berlin diplomatic corps gave their separate thanks for the "peace of Munich" today in the traditional New Year's reception in the glittering new wing of the chancellery which the Nazi fuhrer designed for himself.

Prentiss Gilbert, United States charge d'affaires, filled the place of Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson, now in Washington. (President Roosevelt summoned Wilson home to report on the November anti-Semitic outbreak.)

Monsignor Cesare Orsenigo, papal nuncio who headed the foreign diplomats as they entered the sumptuous new wing, acted as spokesman and tendered "public honor" to the "record of the courageous creators of this (Munich) accord."

Hitler replied that the "peace of Munich" was above all due to the recognition of the fact that necessities were founded upon historical development and natural needs must sooner or later be acknowledged and may not be denied by force.

Monsignor Orsenigo, after tendering the diplomats' felicitations to the chancellery, said in French: "This day (Sept. 30) on which the four statesmen met in Germany, so to speak unexpectedly, in order in a difficult hour to sign an accord that was decisive for peace, filled all people with joy. As the representatives of these peoples, who fervently acclaimed the peace, we are happy at the end of this historic year publicly to honor the courageous creators of this accord and at the same time give expression to the thanks which every friend of peace feels himself under obligation to extend."

Seeks at Least 3,000 More Planes For Army

ASKS FOR SPEED

Wants 27 Million for Panama Canal 'Peace Garrison'

Program in Brief

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt's national defense recommendations in brief: Total program—$552,000,000. Make immediate available to start airplane construction—$50,000,000. Make immediate available for canal zone—$5,000,000. How it would be spent: 1. The army—$450,000,000. Airplanes—$300,000,000 to provide a minimum of 3,000 planes (includes the $50,000,000 asked immediately).

Equipment, guns, ammunition, artillery, etc.—$110,000,000. Educational orders to manufacturers—$20,000,000. Improving seacoast defense, United States and possessions—$8,000,000. 2. The navy—$65,000,000. Create or strengthen Atlantic and Pacific bases—$44,000,000. Airplanes and air materials tests—$21,000,000. 3. Training civilian air pilots—$10,000,000, sum to be spent in a year in conjunction with educational institutions to train 20,000 citizen pilots.

4. Panama Canal Zone $27,000,000. Includes the $5,000,000 asked immediately to start construction work for "adequate peace garrison" for Canal Zone.

Washington—(P)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for an immediate appropriation of $552,000,000 as the "minimum of requirements" for bulwarking the nation's defense against the "possibilities of present offense against us."

In a special message the president requested that $525,000,000 be appropriated at once to be divided between the army and navy. The fund would include $300,000,000 for a minimum increase of 3,000 in army plane strength.

He also asked for an additional $27,000,000 to provide an adequate "peace garrison for the Panama canal," of which $5,000,000 would be for immediate use to begin necessary housing construction.

The total request, "all of which would not be spent in one year," would boost the new budget for defense to $1,661,558,000, largest by far of any peace-time outlay.

"Minimum" Needs "Devoid of all hysteria," the president said, "this program is but the minimum of requirements."

"I trust, therefore, that the congress will quickly act on this emergency program for the strengthening of the defense of the United States."

Mr. Roosevelt said that after entry into the World War the United States "had more than a year of absolute peace at home without any threat of attack on this continent" to prepare its fighting forces.

"Calling attention to these facts," the president said, "does not remotely intimate that the congress or the president have any thought of taking part in another war on European soil, but it does show that in 1917 we were not ready to conduct largescale land or air operations."

"Relatively we are not much more ready to do today than we were then—and we cannot guarantee a long period free from attack in which we could prepare."

Army, Navy Funds Of the $525,000,000 the president asked that $450,000,000 be allocated

Trade Agreements Likely to Meet Congress Attacks

Hulls Visit to Committee To Open Way for Discussion of Policy

Washington—(AP)—Lines are being laid in congress for what easily may become a broad assault on the trade agreements policy by which the Roosevelt administration has tried to pry open foreign markets.

Secretary Hull's visit to the senate finance committee tomorrow will open the way for a discussion of the whole policy, though ostensibly that visit is being made only to talk about the trade treaty with Cuba.

How far efforts to revise the program will go beyond mere words was a question that can be answered only by developments of the session.

Agreements Hit

Besides Republicans, some Democrats and several of the farm organizations are assailing the trade agreements. The changes proposed range from a complete repeal to simple restoration of senate power to approve or disapprove treaties worked out by the state department. Almost a score of new treaties have been put into effect, setting up trade alliances with as many nations. Treaty foes complain that every time the tariff barriers are lowered on any foreign commodity, that article is brought into keener competition with some American product.

Hull's appearance before the senate committee grows out of a recent report from Havana that an agreement had been reached to reduce the tariff on Cuban sugar. Sugar is a very warm subject out in the mountain states. It ranked high among the issues which left one or two members of congress at home this year.

Gifts Continue to Pour Into New High School From Donors

Recent gifts to the Appleton High school include two floor lamps for the Early American room presented jointly by the student council and the Hi-Y groups; drapes for the English office, which were purchased by the department; and drapes for the office of the girls' physical education department, the gift of the Girls' Athletic Association. George Schneider, former congressman, has given the school a bust of George Washington. The manual training department received a jig saw from the Schaefer Hardware company and an air chuck from the Auto Supply company. The King's Daughters contributed another $100 to be used for welfare work. The same group gave $100 earlier in the school year.

Half-Caste Chinese Admits Chicago Murder

Chicago—(AP)—A half-caste Chinese confessed today he slew his employer, Mrs. May Wong, 59, prosperous Chinese restaurateur, by throttling her and beating her with the heel of his boot.

The slaying occurred early Monday. The day the confessed slayer reported for work as a delivery boy as usual at the restaurant in Chicago's Chinatown.

Police Captain Walter Healy said the man, Arthur Hue, 25, confessed after being trapped in a maze of lies.

Hue, the captain reported, said he climbed through a window to burglarize Mrs. Wong's apartment.

Hue said he struck the woman with the heel of his shoe to daze her and when she began to scream continued to strike her and then choked her, the captain added. He fled after taking $18 from Mrs. Wong's purse.

Confessed Arsonist Is Found Not Guilty

Escanaba, Mich.—(AP)—A verdict of "not guilty because of insanity" was returned last yesterday by a circuit court jury which heard the trial of Alfred Riguel, 51, on a charge of arson. The charge was based on the burning of a farm building belonging to Columbus Dietrich, living here last October.

Judge Frank A. Bell said a sanity hearing would be conducted to determine Riguel's present mental condition. Three Escanaba physicians, Drs. A. J. Carlton, John J. Walsh and William Lemire, testified at the trial that Riguel was a dangerous pyromaniac.

Shirley W. E. Miron said Riguel confessed starting a $1,000-a-year fire at the J. W. Wells Lumber company at Menominee in 1931 and another which destroyed the $50,000 St. Mary's Catholic church at Iron Mountain last Nov. 11.

HOPKINS DENIES MAKING "SPEND AND ELECT" REMARK

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (right) (R. Mich.) asked the questions and Harry L. Hopkins (left) gave the answers at a hearing in Washington before the Senate commerce committee on the former WPA administrator's nomination for Secretary of Commerce. The microphone between them carried their remarks to the far reaches of the crowded room. Hopkins denied he had ever said: "We will spend and spend and tax and tax and elect and elect."

Attacks Started on Reorganization in Badger Houses

The senate did something unusual in the way of speed by holding its first night session on the day of organization. Purpose of the haste was to get the machinery going against the reorganization act.

Progressives will fight the repeal measures but they are outnumbered 21 to 11 by Republicans and Democrats.

If the majority program goes through, the new boards of mental hygiene, corrections and social adjustment, which took over the prisons, state institutions and various welfare duties from the board of control, and other departments will be abolished. The old board will resume its functions and Grant C. Haas, recently named director of the department of mental hygiene, will lose his job.

Could Name Members

Governor Heil would be in a position to name three members of a full time commission to supervise the department of agriculture and markets. At present the department is under a seven man, part time advisory board, appointed by LaFollette, and an acting administrative director, Ralph E. Ammon, who has civil service status.

The positions of John A. Thiel, director of the tax commission, and Calmer Browdy, director of the public service commission, would be abolished. The reorganization act replaced the old secretaries of these commissions and provided for directorships instead.

Browdy, however, has civil service rating with the public service commission, which selected him as director, and might name him secretary. Thiel is not under civil service but was appointed by the present tax commission. The takeover of the public service and tax commissions, which are full time, three man bodies, would not be changed except as appointments expire.

Administration of the state securities law would revert back to the public service commission from the state banking commission which inherited the department by executive order.

Many Minor Shifts
Many of the executive shifts were of a minor nature but all came within the scope of Governor Heil's statement in his message yesterday that the reorganization act has caused turmoil in the state service, reducing the efficiency and raising the cost of government.

There would be little effect on the personnel in the department of social adjustment, since the employees would resume their old status. Administration of pensions would go back to the industrial commission and relief, to the welfare department.

The state bureau of inspection and enforcement, including the oil inspection force against which Heil has delivered several blasts, is among those proposed to be dismantled. Units in the bureau which have the largest number of employees are the beverage tax and oil inspection groups. The beverage tax division formerly was under the state treasury but was placed ed by law within the tax commission.

Heil Plans Talk

Governor Julius P. Heil assured members of the legislature yesterday he plans to appear before them at least once a month to discuss state affairs and proposed legislation.

On several occasions he interrupted his prepared message, the first of the session, to speak informally.

"I dislike reading speeches from papers," he said. "I like to look my fellow men in the eyes and talk with them."

The governor digressed from his text to heap some extra words of censure upon the practice of appointing special state counsel in legal cases at per diem fees, asserting the attorney general's office should be able to handle all necessary legal work.

Invitation to Solons

And again he digressed to urge more efficient administration of the civil service laws, citing his own experience as a civil service commissioner in Milwaukee.

"I know the pitfalls of that department," he said.

At the conclusion of his message Governor Heil waved to legislators and told them that regardless of politics or creed, his office will always be open to them.

"I want to be your friend and I want you to be my friend," he said. "If we do that what a great deal of good we can do for Wisconsin."

Roosevelt Seeks 552 Million for National Defense

For new needs of the army, $65,000,000 for similar requirements of the navy, and $10,000,000 for training civil air pilots.

The $300,000,000 of the army fund should provide a minimum increase of 3,000 planes, he said, adding it was hoped that orders placed on a large scale will "materially reduce the unit cost and actually provide many more planes."

(The president authorized plane strength for the army is 2,320. Mr. Roosevelt did not indicate whether the proposed 3,000 plane increase would consist entirely of fighting planes, or include also training and other types. He said details would be submitted to the appropriate committees by the war and navy departments.)

"Critical Items"
Of the $150,000,000 balance for the army, $110,000,000 would go for "critical items" of equipment such as anti-aircraft artillery, semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, tanks, light and heavy artillery, ammunition and gas masks—all to equip regular army and national guard units.

The $65,000,000 for the navy would be divided as follows: $44,000,000 for creation or strengthening of navy bases in both oceans, as recommended to congress last week by a special naval board, and about $21,000,000 for additional navy planes and air arm.

The $10,000,000 for training of civilian pilots in cooperation with educational institutions will give "primary training to approximately 20,000 citizens," the president said, adding that this sum should be appropriated annually.

Asserting the present garrison at the Panama canal was inadequate to "defend this vital link," the president said existing forces "without seriously jeopardizing the general defense by stripping the continental United States of harbor defense and anti-aircraft personnel."

The permanent garrison at the canal, he said, should be increased to provide the minimum personnel required to man the anti-aircraft and seacoast armament.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Firemen were called to the John Stroup home, 715 W. Winnebago street, at 9:55 last night to put out a chimney fire. No damage was reported.

Herman Ihde to Speak at Meeting of Bankers

Herman Ihde, route 2, Neenah, master of the state Grange and president of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, will be one of the speakers at the tenth annual mid-winter meeting of the Wisconsin Bankers association at Milwaukee Jan. 24 and 25.

Other speakers will be Boake Carter, newspaper columnist, and Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

Hentz, manager of the veterans hospital at Mendota, Wis., to the hospital at St. Cloud, Minn., was announced by the Veterans Administration yesterday, effective Feb. 1. Dr. Frank E. Many Minor Shifts
Many of the executive shifts were of a minor nature but all came within the scope of Governor Heil's statement in his message yesterday that the reorganization act has caused turmoil in the state service, reducing the efficiency and raising the cost of government.

There would be little effect on the personnel in the department of social adjustment, since the employees would resume their old status. Administration of pensions would go back to the industrial commission and relief, to the welfare department.

The state bureau of inspection and enforcement, including the oil inspection force against which Heil has delivered several blasts, is among those proposed to be dismantled. Units in the bureau which have the largest number of employees are the beverage tax and oil inspection groups. The beverage tax division formerly was under the state treasury but was placed

Governor Julius P. Heil assured members of the legislature yesterday he plans to appear before them at least once a month to discuss state affairs and proposed legislation.

On several occasions he interrupted his prepared message, the first of the session, to speak informally.

"I dislike reading speeches from papers," he said. "I like to look my fellow men in the eyes and talk with them."

The governor digressed from his text to heap some extra words of censure upon the practice of appointing special state counsel in legal cases at per diem fees, asserting the attorney general's office should be able to handle all necessary legal work.

Invitation to Solons

And again he digressed to urge more efficient administration of the civil service laws, citing his own experience as a civil service commissioner in Milwaukee.

"I know the pitfalls of that department," he said.

At the conclusion of his message Governor Heil waved to legislators and told them that regardless of politics or creed, his office will always be open to them.

"I want to be your friend and I want you to be my friend," he said. "If we do that what a great deal of good we can do for Wisconsin."

Text of Roosevelt's Message Asking 852 Million to Meet U.S. 'Minimum' Defense Needs

Washington—(AP)—The following is the text of President Roosevelt's message to congress on national defense:

To the Congress of the United States:

In my annual message to this congress I have spoken at some length of the changing world conditions outside of the American hemisphere which make it imperative that we take immediate steps for the protection of our liberties.

It would be unwise for any of us to yield to any form of hysteria. Nevertheless, regardless of political affiliations, we can properly join in an appraisal of the world situation and agree on the immediate defense needs of the nation.

It is equally sensational and untrue to take the position that we must at once spend billions of additional money for building up our land and air forces on the one hand, or to insist that no further additions are necessary on the other.

Recent "Great Change"

What needs to be emphasized is the great change which has come over conflicts between nations since the World War ended, and especially during the past five or six years.

Those of us who took part in the conduct of the World War will remember that in the preparation of the American armies for actual participation in battle, the United States, entering the war on April 6, 1917, took no part whatsoever in any major engagement until the end of May, 1918. In other words, while our armies were conducting the actual fighting, the United States had more than a year of absolute peace at home without any threat of attack on this continent, to train men, to produce raw materials, to process them into munitions and supplies and to forge the whole into fighting forces. It is even a matter of record that as late as the autumn of 1918, American armies at the front used almost exclusively French or British artillery and aircraft.

Calling attention to these facts does not remotely intimate that the congress or the president have any thought of taking part in another war on European soil, but it does show that in 1917 we were not ready to conduct large scale land or air operations. Relatively we are not much more ready to do so today than we were then—and we cannot guarantee a long period free from attack in which we could prepare.

I have called attention to the fact that "we must have armed forces and defenses strong enough to ward off sudden attack against strategic positions and key facilities essential to ensure sustained resistance and ultimate victory." And I have said that they may be immediately utilized and rapidly expanded to meet all needs without danger of serious interruption by enemy attack."

Present Urgent Needs

I repeat that "there is new range and speed to offense."

Therefore, it has become necessary for every American to restudy present defense against the possibilities of present offense against us.

Careful examination of the most imperative present needs leads me to recommend the appropriation at this session of the congress, with as great speed as possible, of approximately $525,000,000, of which sum approximately $210,000,000 would be actually spent from the treasury before the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940.

The survey indicates that of this sum approximately $450,000,000 should be allocated for new needs of the army, $65,000,000 for new needs of the navy, and $10,000,000 for training of civilian air pilots.

The several items will be submitted to the appropriate committees of the congress by the departments concerned, and I need, therefore, touch only on the major divisions of the total.

Forces "Utterly Inadequate"

In the case of the army, information from other nations leads us to believe that there must be a complete revision of our estimates for aircraft. The Baker board report of a few years ago is completely out of date. No responsible officer advocates building our air forces up to the total of either planes on hand or of productive capacity equal to the forces of certain other nations. We are thinking in the terms of necessary defenses and the conclusion is inevitable that our existing forces are so utterly inadequate that they must be immediately strengthened.

It is proposed that $300,000,000 be appropriated for the purchase of several types of airplanes for the army. This should provide a minimum increase of 3,000 planes, but it is hoped that orders on such a large scale will materially reduce the unit cost and actually provide many more planes.

Military aviation is increasing today at an unprecedented and alarming rate. Increased range, increased speed, increased capacity of airplanes abroad have charged our requirements for defensive aviation. The additional planes recommended will considerably strengthen the air defenses of the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone. If an appropriation bill can be quickly enacted, I suggest that $50,000,000 of the $300,000,000 for airplanes be made immediately available in order to correct the present lag in aircraft production due to idle plants.

Of the balance of approximately $150,000,000 requested for the army, I suggest an appropriation of $110,000,000 to provide "critical teams" of equipment which would be needed immediately in time of emergency, and which cannot be obtained from any source within the time and quantity desired—material such as anti-aircraft artillery, semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, tanks, light and heavy artillery, ammunition and gas masks. Such purchases would go far to equip existing units of the regular army and the national guard.

"Educational Orders"
I suggest approximately $32,000,000 for "educational orders" for the army—in other words, to enable industry to prepare for quantity production in an emergency, of those military items which are non-commercial in character and are so difficult of manufacture as to constitute what is known as "bottle-necks" in the problem of procurement.

The balance should be used, I believe, for improving and strengthening the seacoast defense of Panama, Hawaii and the continental United States, including the construction of a highway outside the limits of Panama Canal Zone, important to the defense of the zone.

"The estimated appropriation of $65,000,000 for the navy should be divided into (A) $44,000,000 for the creation or strengthening of navy bases in both oceans in general agreement with the report of the special board which has already been submitted to the congress, (B) about $21,000,000 for additional navy airplanes and air material tests.

Finally, national defense calls for the annual training of additional air pilots. This training should be primarily directed to the essential qualifications for civilian flying. In cooperation with educational institutions, it is believed that the expenditure of $10,000,000 a year will give primary training to approximately 20,000 citizens.

In the above recommendations for appropriations totaling $525,000,000, I have omitted reference to a deficit.

nite need, which, however, relates to the implementing of existing defenses for the Panama canal. The security of the canal is of the utmost importance. The peace garrison now there is inadequate to defend this vital link. This deficiency cannot be corrected with existing forces without seriously jeopardizing the general defense by stripping the continental United States of harbor defense and anti-aircraft personnel. The permanent garrison in the Canal Zone should be increased to provide the minimum personnel required to man the anti-aircraft and seacoast armament provided for the defense of the canal. Such personnel cannot be increased until additional housing facilities are provided—and, in the meantime, additional personnel must be trained. I recommend, therefore, an appropriation of $27,000,000 to provide an adequate peace garrison for the Canal Zone and to house it adequately. $5,000,000 of this sum should be made available immediately in order that work on

John M. Smith, New Overseer of Badger State Funds, Is as Common as His Name

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD

Madison — If you happen to ask John M. Smith of Shell Lake, new custodian of Wisconsin's exchequer, how he was elected over such a redoubtable political personality as "Sol" Levitan in last November's election, he will look you over, smile slowly and say:

"Well, sir, I wish you would tell me how it happened. I don't know."

That answer will give you a considerable clue to the character of one of the most unusual personalities to show up in Wisconsin's politics in many moons. He might be expected to answer that he made some 400 speeches in 350 cities and towns, that he drove almost 100,000 miles, contacted thousands of his influential friends made in a long career in business, that he argued political issues with force and clarity, all of which he did. But he doesn't mention those until you ask him.

Frank and Honest

An experienced politician would hate to admit that his election was an accident. But John M. Smith, as plain as his name, is frank in speech and honest in spirit. Which ought to make him a pretty satisfactory state treasurer.

To the political reporter accustomed to writing of orthodoxy in politics, John Smith is refreshing.

After an hour's chat in his comfortable new office in the statehouse — into which you walk unannounced and where you get an unmistakable impression of welcome — it is hard to avoid the observation that Wisconsin didn't get much of a change after all when it elected Smith to take over the chair which venerable "Old Sol" held for 12 years.

Personalities Similar

Forgetting for the moment the physical characteristics of the two men, the similarity in their personalities is remarkable. Smith admits right off that he likes publicity, in contrast to most politicians who swear they don't while they are plotting ways to get more newspaper space. "Uncle Sol" thought of publicity as meat and drink. Smith likes politics, he has decided after his first fling. Sol thrived on it. Both like people, the surest mark of a politician born. Both spent the greater part of their adult lives as bankers, as financial confessors of their neighbors and friends rather than as financiers. Both carried on the functions of the bankers' life in a human and humane spirit, with the result that both are today flat broke.

The similarity might be carried further. Sol is a self-educated Russian Jew of uncertain antecedents; Smith can trace his ancestry back to somewhere in Kentucky on his paternal grandfather's side, to Kentucky again on his mother's side, but not even that far. And he too supplied his own education, in the well traveled school of experience.

Wears $30 Suits

Smith is a pleasant, alert, trim little man who wears $30 suits and the kind of shirts which misquid relatives and friends use for Christmas presents. He is the composite Wisconsin small town businessman — Republican, but not one in a hundred would pick him as a likely candidate for state office.

Thus, in one way or another more clearly the circumstances of his present position, and maybe to decide that his election wasn't entirely accidental, his personal history will be enlightening.

He is 67 years old (and expects to live 20 more years), and was born in rural Illinois. Before the turn of the century he was in Janesville at a telegraph operators' school. He went to work for a railroad company in St. Paul, shortly afterward joined the Weyerhaeuser lumber interests who were then operating mills and camps in Wisconsin county and vicinity. There he became bookkeeper, and stayed for five or six years.

Took Correspondence Course

He soon picked up part-time employment at the Lumbermen's bank in the village and at the same time tried mightily to satisfy an ambition to be a lawyer by enrolling in a correspondence school. In order to make certain that he would not skip his law work in the press of his two jobs, he spent most of his frugal savings by paying for his law courses in advance.

Here began his career. He advanced in the bank, step by step. He assumed an active and lively interest in the welfare of the community, socially and economically. He was one of the first to foresee the end of the forest harvesting industry, promoted the expansion of dairying in Washburn county and in Shell Lake. Slowly the bank's customers, once lumbermen and those associated with the lumbering industry, gave way to farmers. And "Jim" Smith grew with the community.

Named Bank President

He became president of the bank in 1901, has continued in that office ever since.

He worked with the college of agriculture on agricultural problems he helped farmers clear land by furnishing dynamite, he made seed available locally. He furnished the capital and the incentive which established the Shell Lake cooperative creamery, which now produces a million pounds of butter each year. He joined the campaign for good roads, and participated in the first formal organization formed to boost the northwoods as a vacation land, about 20 years ago.

Now comes the story which has often been told in the last couple of weeks, how he voluntarily closed his bank when the depression, which struck his community earlier than others, back in 1927, turned it over to the state banking commission for liquidation, and his own personal assets, totaling about $100,000 with it. He believed that his personal property would be enough to satisfy the claims of all depositors. But they were not, and he invited the banking commission to take a judgment against him.

Gets But $100

The result is that although he will receive $5,000 a year from the state, he will be allowed to retain only $100 a month. The balance will be taken by the commission to apply against the judgment, now amounting to about $20,000 without interest, he says.

What hasn't been told, however, is that that story would have been tremendously useful during the campaign, but there wasn't a hint of it until after the votes were counted. Then he furnished the details only after a great deal of persuasion.

The people, he felt, might have thought that he was "bragging."

Nor has it been told how for the 12 years since the bank has been closed he has been at his desk in the president's office daily, beginning at 5 a. m., continuing to counsel with his friends in the community, and helping the state officials to settle the bank's accounts. Nor has it been told that the man who when he might have been thinking about retirement with a comfortable fortune of $100,000 a little more than a decade ago, two weeks ago possessed only a 1929 Ford car in which he made his campaign, and $175, and that the trucking company took $125 of that to move his modest household effects to Madison before the inaugural.

$23 In His Pocket

And right now, with payday three weeks away, all the money he has amounts to $23.

Since coming to Madison surprised friends have tried to show him that while $100 may have supported his wife and himself in Shell Lake, Madison is something different again. Slowly that faint, friendly smile appears, and then this: "If I can't make it, I'll go back home."

Smith lives in a $36 flat, which in the expensive capital city is the height of modesty for a constitutional state official. He has made one concession to the changed conditions in which he finds himself; he will charge his daughter, whom he has just appointed his personal secretary, $50 a month for board. Out of the $150 he will be able to do the political traveling necessary to insure reelection, and save enough to pay for his campaign expenses in 1940, he figures.

Won't Be "Stuck"

For he is already planning to run again. If he can be state treasurer for about six years, he has figured out, he will be able to satisfy that $20,000 obligation. Then his friends won't be "stuck," and he will be ready to do as he pleases with the 14 more years which he feels will be his.

How about his politics, and his political experience? It is a fitting part of the man that he never ran for office before in his life, and that he never took the slightest part in political campaigns before.

Legends are bound to grow up about his nomination by the Coalition committee, and his subsequent election. Here are the facts.

The Coalition committee one Saturday afternoon last summer, after much telephoning and hurrying about, had found candidates for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, and secretary of state. That left the state treasurer's place open on its slate. Who to get? After several declarations, someone hit upon the name of "a man named Smith, who lives up north somewhere, and who is a banker, farmer, and well-known businessman. More important he started the organization of state dairymen a couple of years ago to represent farmers against the organizers of Minneapolis unions which had come to Wisconsin."

Wasn't Consulted

His address was finally ascertained as Shell Lake. But a telephone call went unanswered. So his name went on the ticket anyway, and was given to the newspapers.

Next morning Smith was washing the windows of his long-closed bank, standing at the top of a tall step-ladder. A friend from a pool-room across the street walked over with a morning newspaper carrying the announcement.

"Will you run," he was asked. "Certainly," he returned.

Next day he boarded his ancient auto and went down to Milwaukee to see the Coalition leaders, informed them that he hadn't a cent to campaign with, and asked for a contribution. It was promised, and he returned home. But the money didn't come, despite other calls. So he stayed at home during the rest of the primary campaign, and on election day he polled the highest vote given to any candidate. (There might be a moral in this for campaign orators.)

The story was different during the general election campaign, however. Then he pounded home the idea of Coalition, which is one of his firmest political convictions. He covered the western half of the state thoroughly, the traditional stronghold of the Progressives. Lo

Reappoints Assistant

He wants to run his office fairly. As a sample he tells you that he has reappointed the assistant state treasurer for a probationary period of two months, despite heavy pressure from friends and political associates on behalf of other candidates. He is a Mason and a shiner, is married and has only one child, although his ancestors were prolific. One grandfather had 10 children, all of whom had at least 10 children, and one of whom had 18. His only child is his secretary, who is more of a politician than her father.

He never satisfied completely that ambition to be a lawyer, but studied law all his life and appeared frequently in court in probate matters for his clients during 40 years.

He thinks WPA is a good idea, and that it, or something like it is here to stay. He leads you to believe that he doesn't waste pennies when he tells the story of George S. Parker. Parker was the first to greet Smith at the station in Janesville as a young man, and tried right off to sell him a fountain pen. Two years ago he again met Parker, then a millionaire manufacturer of high quality pens, and was asked whether he had ever bought the Parker product.

"Nope," Smith replied.

Appleton Machine Looks to 1939 as Good Business Era

New Products, Sharper Demand Point to Better Sales

The recent development of new products by the Appleton machine company, their emergence on the commercial market, and an expected upturn in the demand by paper mills for beaters and Jordan engines point towards better business in 1939 than during the past year, according to Carlton E. Saecker, treasurer of the company.

"Ours is a heavy industry," Saecker said yesterday, "and we lag behind business booms in the consumer's world. We haven't felt any improvement yet, but our salesmen are optimistic and we look forward to a pretty fair year. We're not sure, however, whether it will be any better than was 1937."

The company, which depends principally upon the paper industry for orders this year will push the sale of a new type of flat screen and at present is working on a grinder for making ground wood which is of radically different design, Saecker said.

The grinder, of the automatic type has been given successful experimental trials and the first machine for commercial use is now being constructed. It will weigh 75,000 pounds and will be used by a New York mill.

"The beater and Jordan business has been comparatively quiet this past year," Saecker said yesterday. "Not only with us but with all our competitors. We do expect more activity along this line this year."

The Appleton Machine company which employs 60 men at present, has been making super calendars for many years, but last year the firm added another product to its output — calendar stacks which hold from eight to 16 rolls. These three products, flat screens, automatic grinders, and calendar stacks, are the newest additions to the company's line.

Wants Congress to Find Out Who Made First American Flag

Washington — (AP) — Theodore Gottlieb, patriotic instructor for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, declared legislative war today on Betsy Ross, the nimble-fingered seamstress often credited with making the first star-spangled banner.

He petitioned for a congressional investigation to determine among other flag facts:

1. The origin of the Stars and Stripes.
2. What influence, if any, did Betsy have either in designing or making the flag?
3. Where Betsy lived.

Gottlieb has spent years running down makers-of-the-first-flag stories. Betsy Ross, he declared, made the first Pennsylvania state naval flags on which she probably hem-stitched a rattlesnake and some stripes.

Who did design the first Stars and Stripes?

Gottlieb won't say for certain. That's what he wants congress to do. He'll go no further than a "probably."

All Appointments Of Administration Will be Confirmed

Roosevelt Still Has Demo- cratic Majority in Houses, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—The administration is in the rather novel position at this session of congress of finding itself somewhat on the defensive as against a scattering fire from independent Democrats and Republicans.

No condition of a formal sort has been developed in opposition to the administration, but the attacks that are being made on various presidential appointments would seem to indicate that members of congress are endeavoring to reflect, if not interpret, the underlying currents of protest which may have been responsible for the reverses given the administration at the polls last November.

From some points of view, the administration is lucky that the attack has taken the form it has because, thus early in the session, the fire of the opposition is drawn on grounds that seem to the public largely personal, notwithstanding the efforts of the opposition forces to make them seem really impersonal.

In every one of the contests there are basic principles which are derived from the operation of existing laws, but the opposition senators who are considering the new appointments are not raising broad questions of policy. They are for the present trying to relate the questions of personal fitness to the operation of controversial laws.

Safeguards On WPA
Thus, the real question is not whether Harry L. Hopkins is fit or unfit to be secretary of commerce, but what safeguards should now be put into the appropriate laws on WPA so as to keep politics and coercion out of that organization.

Again, the real problem arising out of the fight against confirmation of Donald Wakefield Smith for reappointment to the National Labor Relations board is not whether Mr. Smith is fit or unfit, but what shall be done now about amending the Wagner law itself. As a matter of fact, he has voted identically as has each of his other two colleagues in all decisions of the board that have been reviewed thus far by the courts, and the record shows a substantial majority of instances in which the board has been upheld.

Also, the real issue with respect to the confirmation of former Governor Murphy of Michigan to be attorney general is neither his qualifications nor his temperament nor his character or integrity, but whether "sit-down" strikes should have been condemned by public officials. This question is before the supreme court of the United States, which is expected shortly to rule on it. The voters of Michigan, moreover, have expressed themselves on these points, and sit-down strikes are by no means in vogue today.

Capable Of Job?
Whether Mr. Murphy acted wisely or unwisely in a critical situation involving possible bloodshed is not the legal issue before the senate, but whether Mr. Murphy is capable of acting as general manager of a government department known as the department of justice, in which scores of attorneys and assistants are employed and a solicitor general like Robert Jackson and an assistant attorney general like Thurman Arnold.

Witness Couldn't Offer Much Against Job for Frankfurter

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER
Washington—Free speech and the right of petition are great cornerstones of strength in our system of government and we stick to them, even when it seems a waste of time. That is how it came about that eight United States senators have to give some hours of their time in useless listening to witnesses opposing Dr. Felix Frankfurter for the supreme court.

The first witness to appear before the senate judiciary subcommittee which sat solemnly around its horseshoe dais, was a thin, elderly man, who introduced himself as Collis Redd, head of the constitutional crusaders of America. The senators asked him whom he represented. The old fellow replied that he was a committee of one, self appointed to represent the consumers, the unemployed, the old age pensioners—in fact everybody, he said, except the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. "You don't represent them?" one senator asked. "Not guilty," the old fellow replied.

The senators let him talk a while and then asked him again about his "constitutional crusaders of America." How many members? Well, he hadn't commercialized it as yet. Ever have a meeting of your organization? No, but he hopes to have one soon. Senators pressed him a little further and finally, Old Man Redd said, "I am the whole works myself!"

The one-man constitutional crusader said Frankfurter was unfit to be on the supreme court because he wrote the NRA law. When senators asked him how he knew Frankfurter wrote the bill, he said everybody knew it. Some of the senators said they didn't know it and what was his proof. Redd fumbled helplessly among his papers and promised to bring convincing proof later. That closed his case against Frankfurter.

Objected Because Of Birth In Vienna
The next witness was a Washington lawyer, who announced that he represented only himself and not, "like the previous witness," the whole universe. He doesn't want Frankfurter on the supreme court because he was born in Europe. A recent supreme court justice, Sutherland, was born in England, but the witness said that was different. Frankfurter was born in Vienna. Furthermore Frankfurter kept un-American company, was a member of the Civil Liberties union. Also Frankfurter once wrote that the "supreme court is the constitution." That plainly disqualified him.

The witness was left unshaken when Senator Norris reminded him that Chief Justice Hughes had said the same thing—that the constitution is what the judges say it is. Anyway, Frankfurter is not a representative Jew and his appointment would wrong loyal American Jews. The witness quoted Justice Brandeis on the Jewish question and said such views, in which he suspected that Frankfurter concurred, could not be reconciled with supreme court duties—although the witness did not pursue his logic.

Wiley Asks More Funds to Promote Vocational Work

Bill Almost Identical to Senator LaFollette's Proposal

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Washington—Senator Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls Republican, has introduced a bill to double the appropriations for aid to the states for vocational rehabilitation. Simultaneously, he issued a statement attacking the president's Jackson day speech, containing the statement that:

"The president still continues his original panacea, to wit: government spending. I am sure this does not meet with the approval of a large majority of the people. I am reminded of the old farmer in my own state, who said, 'You cannot dig yourself out of a hole by digging deeper.'"

Same As LaFollette's
The vocational rehabilitation bill follows the recommendations of the vocational rehabilitation groups, and is almost identical with the bill introduced in the last congress by Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., Madison Progressive.

The current appropriation for aid to states for vocational rehabilitation is $1,000,000 and that is all which the social security act authorizes for future years. The Wiley bill would raise this to $3,000,000 during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1939, to $4,000,000 during the following fiscal year, and to $5,000,000 thereafter, as LaFollette's bill would have done, except that the LaFollette bill, if passed in the last session, would begin the increase this year.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped, or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little PASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get PASTEETH at any drug store. Adv.

Receivership Denied In Fidelity Firm Case

Wheeling, W. Va.—(P)—Federal Judge William E. Baker Thursday denied a petition for appointment of a receivership for the Fidelity Investment association and at the same time overruled the association's motion for dismissal of the suit.

Judge Baker said the case presented problems that "we must endeavor to work out together" and asked attorneys for both sides for their suggestion on the possible trial of the issues or the appointment of a special master to audit the association's accounts and investigate its operations.

The receivership was sought by a group of Pennsylvania residents who held 16 of the company's investment loan contracts. They based their action on charges of fraudulent practices against the company by the securities commission.

Schmiege Is Author of Text On Complete Bankruptcy Law

A legal text completed last fall by Attorney Oscar J. Schmiege, entitled "The Complete Bankruptcy Law of the United States, Annotated," has had wide distribution among law schools, federal and state government agencies, and attorneys.

The 200-page text explains changes wrought by the Chandler act of June 22, 1938, which re-wrote much of the old law. The Chandler act was the first major revision in the bankruptcy law in 40 years.

About 10,000 copies of the book, first issued Sept. 20 of last year, have been purchased throughout the country. It has been adopted as a standard text by the Washington School of Law, Washington, D. C., and by law schools at University of Wisconsin, University of Southern California, Temple University, and Loyola University.

Schmiege started work on the volume about a year ago. The United States government has purchased a large number of copies for use by governmental agencies and the book is being widely used by attorneys throughout the United States. The book was published by the Legal Publishing Company and printed by the Santa Publishing company of Menasha.

WRITES TEXT

A book on the national bankruptcy law written by Oscar J. Schmiege, Appleton attorney, has been adopted as a standard text at several law schools and has been distributed widely among government agencies.

The WORLD of STAMPS

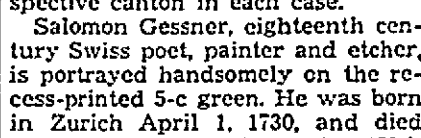

BY THE AP FEATURE SERVICE

The Swiss-Juvenile stamps are the most popular of all charity issues. The series began in 1913 with the issue of one value, showing Helvetia with the Matterhorn in the background. From 1918-26, these richly colored typographed stamps depicted the arms of the 25 cantons, from Uri to Aargau. Since then, they have shown mostly peasant types and a few outstanding figures from the arts, taken from Swiss annals.

Altogether there have been 88 Pro-Juvenile stamps, and the 1938 set of four maintains the standard set for these attractive issues. The three higher values, printed in typography, show girls in native costumes, from St. Gall on the 10-centime violet and buff; from Uri on the 20-c red and buff; from Aargau on the 30-c blue and buff. A scenic background suggests the respective canton in each case.

Salomon Gessner, eighteenth century Swiss poet, painter and etcher, is portrayed handsomely on the recess-printed 5-c green. He was born in Zurich April 1, 1733, and died there March 2, 1788, so the 150th anniversary of his death is practically at hand.

College At Reykjavik Iceland is telling the world she has a 20-year-old university. A recently issued set of three stamps—

25-aur olive green, 30-a brown and 40-a red violet—commemorates the 20th anniversary of the Icelandic University. The common design shows the facade of the main building at Reykjavik.

Central American Presidents To get pictures of the presidents of six Central American republics, the new airmail set from Guatemala is a new buy. Stamps of this issue, put out to commemorate the first Central American Philatelic Exhibition held at Guatemala City Nov. 20-27, are typographed and look like labels, but the heads are interesting.

The 1-centavo orange shows Dr. Juan Demostenes Arsemene, president of Panama; 2-c red, Sr. Don Leon Cortes of Costa Rica; 3-c green and buff, Gen. Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua; 4-c plum and mauve, Gen. Tiburcio Carias Andino of Honduras; 5-c bistre and pale green, Gen. Maximiliano H. Martinez of Salvador; 10-c blue and pale blue, Gen. Jorge Ubico of Guatemala. In each case the portrait is printed in sepia.

Maud Shepherdson was installed officer to succeed Edna Strong. Other officers are: Vice officer, Minnie Pooler; chancellor, Mary Peep; recorder, Eva Ceasner; receiver, Vera Meading; musician, Elsie Kuehler; inner sentinel, Mable Locke; outer sentinel, Mary Rueden; marshal, May Thompson; assistant marshal, Olive Steele. The installing officer was Maud Shepherdson. She was assisted by May Thompson, ceremonial marshal. After the installation a lunch was served. The committee for February will include Evis Booth and Margie O'Brien.

Due to an attack of the flu Arnold Vechos, agricultural instructor of the local high school, is absent from his duties. Elmer Knitt of the University of Wisconsin, whose home is at Clintonville, is acting as his substitute.

The Literary Society of Elmwood school held a meeting Friday. The purpose of this meeting was to appoint new officers for the second semester. The following officers were elected: President, Lyle Shepherd; vice president, Anton Weber; secretary, Phyllis Spoehr; treasurer, Virginia Reed.

The following pupils were neither absent nor tardy during December: Lyle Shepherd, Anton Weber, Edna Strong, Robert Bunnell, Phyllis Spoehr, Richard Merholtz, Donna Spoehr, Roland Kananan, Adam Weber, Margaret Spoehr, James Spoehr, La Vonne Merholtz and James Bunnell.

The following pupils have perfect attendance for the four month period: Lyle Shepherd, Phyllis Spoehr, Richard Merholtz, Donna Spoehr, Roland Kananan and Margaret Spoehr. Miss Erma Gundersen is the teacher.

Waupaca Garden Club Has Its First Meeting of Year

Waupaca—The first meeting of the Waupaca Garden club of the year, was held in the club rooms at the library. No meeting of the club had been held since November when it met with Mrs. Ben Dance. Mrs. Dance's death occurred at the time the club was to have had its December meeting and Christmas party.

A record crowd was in attendance. The new president, Mrs. James Carew arranged to have each member called to remind her of the meeting.

Mrs. A. M. Christofferson had arranged for colored slides of birds and bird feeding, which was the subject planned for the day, and the lecture accompanying the slides was read by Mrs. A. J. Hancock. Other pictures taken by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bramer at their summer home on Minner lake were shown by Mr. Bramer.

Mrs. Theodore Peterson described her new bird feeder to club members. Although it of ample size, not many birds at a time use it, each awaits its turn. A pair of cardinals feed from the ground under the trough—too timid to get closer to the window to which the trough is fastened.

On New Year's day a large flock of purple finches stopped to feed on the berries of the wild honey-suckle in the garden. Mrs. Peterson reported her first robin on Dec. 12. The bird stayed north too late or arrived too early. It remained on the grounds throughout the day but did not return.

Peter Jackson, father of Mrs. Peterson, who lives in the town of Dorton had a mourning dove arrive at his farm on Christmas morning. It feeds daily with his chickens and he expects it to remain all winter.

Inhalator Purchased By Farmington Town

Waupaca — Equipment to combat the effects of carbon monoxide gas poisoning, so prevalent in all communities during winter months, is available for use in Waupaca and vicinity of Wisconsin Veterans Home in the form of an inhalator purchased by the town of Farmington. The inhalator is manned by members of the Wisconsin Veterans Home Fire department. At a recent life-saving demonstration before the Tuesday night home hygiene class sponsored by the Waupaca Branch of the Red Cross in the Waupaca school building, a trained team of employees from the Veterans Home illustrated the use of the inhalator in conjunction with artificial respiration for such cases of gas poisoning and in addition, victims of electric shock, drowning and other cases of suffocation.

In a talk preceding the demonstration, Major Waldo Hanson, utility officer of the Veterans Home, and acting fire chief, explained the advantage and limitations of this life-saving equipment.

Members of the demonstration squad, in addition to Major Hanson who was in charge, were Milton Paulsen, Bert Wyman, James Jamieson, all employees of the Wisconsin Veterans Home Fire department.

The inhalator is available upon telephone call to the Home at any time.

The Tuesday night hygiene class is conducted regularly by Mrs. C.

Mother, Mix Your Own Cough Remedy. It's Better

Quick. Comforting Relief. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

No matter what you might spend for medicine, you couldn't get quicker, better relief from coughs that start from colds than this simple home mixture. It takes but a moment to prepare—it's so easy a child could do it. And it saves real money.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few minutes until dissolved. No cooking is needed.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid cough remedy and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time and children love its taste.

War Threat Impresses Former Lawrence Student in Europe

A former Lawrence college student, Bill Karll, Wauwatosa, returned Sunday from a hitch-hike tour abroad with a firm impression of a war-bent Europe.

Bill started out last summer and got home last Sunday after sailing from Germany to South America and up the California coast on a freighter.

"It appears that only the Scandinavian countries will be untouched by war," he said upon his return. Bill observed Germany's young generation training for soldiering or to bear future soldiers.

He observed Switzerland prepared with dynamite charged bridges and a fortified boundary — to prevent German troops from moving through to France; discovered Rumania strife torn; saw Hungary suspicious of every visitor; and observed army maneuvers to put fear in the people of Italy.

Free of Strife

The Scandinavian lands are free of strife, Bill found. He bought a bicycle and headed for the sparsely settled inland Norway. The farmers gladly allowed him a night's rest in their barns and called him into their homes for warm meals.

In Sweden, Bill was thrown from his bicycle and injured his leg. Passers by helped him arrange for his 300-mile trip back to the coast and he spent a week in a hospital in Berlin for treatment. However, he said Berlin was exciting with its parades, speeches by Hitler and military demonstrations.

Bill traveled through Germany after leaving Berlin but when he got to the Black Forest, he discarded the bicycle preferring to walk up the mountains.

American Flag Helps

"My numerals and an American flag on my Lawrence sweater helped all the way. I thumbed rides in the forest and from Freiburg to Basel, then to Lucerne and Zurich. The war threat then caused Bill to turn southward when two English motorists picked him up in the Alps. With them he rode to Grimsel, Furka and St. Gotthard passes and went to Lugano.

His international student identification card admitted him to the modern equipped "casa della studente," student house, in every Italian city he visited, for a small fee. "There were many soldiers in Vienna," Bill said. "After their raids the police would reappear from nowhere to restore order."

Sails on Danube

A Danube boat carried Bill past Bratislava, Budapest and Belgrade to Giurgiu, a small river port near the Black sea. There he met a traveler from San Francisco. Rumanian peasant's headgear caused a few uneasy moments for the pair in Budapest. The travelers, sitting on a park bench, became aware of soldiers who finally closed in on them. Because of the boys' peasant clothing they suspected them of being Russian spies. Budapest is bristled with anti-aircraft guns set up to ward off expected Czechoslovakian raids.

Suggest Taxes on Slot Machines to Pay Pension Aids

Legislators Looking for New Sources of Revenue for State

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—Potential sources of revenue which have hitherto gone untouched because of their social and political implications are getting the serious consideration of members of the Wisconsin legislature who have examined the state's fiscal condition and found it wanting, it developed here today.

Confronted by the sternest kind of enigma—dwindling tax receipts, increasing social service expenditures of the state government, coupled with generous campaign promises—some of the older members of the legislature are studying the feasibility of revenue sources which in previous years have scared their predecessors, legalization and taxation of slot machines and other gaming devices, and legal lotteries under state control or outright state management.

Tentative bills for repeal of the anti-slot machine law and for lotteries for revenue are now being drawn secretly by a group of legislators with the assistance of the bill drafting experts in the legislative reference library, it was revealed here today.

One advocate of a state lottery for old age pension purposes claims that "it is the most practical method of extracting money from people." He estimated that a monthly lottery on a state-wide basis would produce at least $100,000 a year. It would also serve to keep the thousands of dollars which now draw out of the state by illegal American and foreign lotteries, he maintained.

See Trouble Ahead

It was immediately apparent, however, that legislators, who always have one eye ahead at the next election, are not yet sure of themselves in this respect. A proposal for repeal of the laws prohibiting pin ball machines and slot machines would stir up much opposition from clerical and civic groups, it is feared. There is some hope, however, one advocate of repeal pointed out, that the pressure from old-age pension groups, and the public generally, would aid materially as soon as the stringent necessities in state finance are generally known.

Discussions thus far on the gaming machine question have shown that there is considerable support for a repeal of the law among the northern counties, who would like to have local option. Shawano county, for example, wants the legislature to provide that local authorities be empowered to allow or prohibit slot machines, and to tax the machines if they see fit.

It has been estimated, according to Shawano county interests, that tax of $100 on each machine would net the county treasury there $150,000 a year, more than enough to cover its entire annual relief bill without state assistance.

Another proposal which is likely to be introduced will allow towns, cities and villages to decide whether or not they want gaming devices within their limits, and allowing them to tax the machines.

Bill Introduced

It is significant, probably, that legislators express much interest in discussing the matter. Harold A. Lytle, Democratic assemblyman from Green Bay, said that he is open-minded on the question, realizing that gaming machines are a new revenue, and that he would like to get an expression on the question from the public.

Assemblyman Mark Catlin Jr., of Appleton, a Republican, introduced a bill to allow localities to regulate and to tax pin-ball machines at the 1937 session of the legislature. It drew some opposition from various groups at a hearing but was never fully debated on the floor.

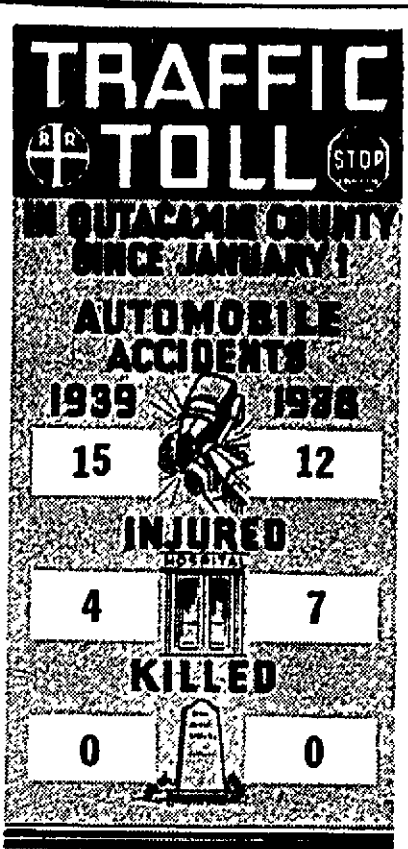

Catlin reports that he has not yet decided whether to introduce the measure again this winter.

The strongest impression given by legislators at their organization meetings yesterday is the recognition of the fact that they must find new revenue for the state, and for localities that run state aids. There are two possibilities frequently suggested, diversion of highway funds, and a modified sales tax. Both will present difficulties, however, and both, legislative politicians fear, will be very unpopular.

Nolo Contendere Pleas Made in Larceny Case

Three Appleton youths, two 18 and one 16 years of age, entered pleas of nolo contendere to a charge of petty larceny in municipal court yesterday afternoon. The charges of Judge Thomas H. Judge Ryan ordered them to make restitution and continued the case for a month.

House Committee Asks 725 Million For WPA to June 30

the debate tomorrow afternoon and to attempt passage by tomorrow night.

In recommending a clause which would nullify, in effect, a presidential order to blanket WPA administrative employees into the civil service Feb. 1, the committee said WPA was a temporary agency.

The administrative personnel upwards of 35,000 individuals—the committee said also should be considered temporary workers.

With reference to recovery, the committee noted that President Roosevelt in messages to congress, had commented on substantial business and industrial improvement.

Rapid Recovery

Furthermore, it said, Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, had stated that there had been "rapid and extensive" recovery since last July and that the number of workers in the agricultural sector had increased by more than 1,000,000 in the last six months.

Harrington, it said, also stated that a further increase of 1,500,000 in private employment was anticipated by June 30.

WPA rolls, the committee said, "should be purged of malingerers and many others who manage to remain on the rolls continuously."

It held that such purging should effect a reduction and make room for more eligible persons.

There also are many unemployed persons on WPA who should be cared for by established relief agencies financed by other than federal funds, the committee asserted.

The committee said it felt the president's position that congress might desire to legislate to divorce relief from politics was sound.

The $725,000,000, the committee suggested, could be so spread out as to provide for 2,800,000 WPA workers in February, 2,600,000 in March, 2,400,000 in April, 2,200,000 in May and 2,000,000 in June.

By comparison, the administration contemplated using $875,000,000 for 3,000,000 jobs in February and March; 2,875,000 in April; 2,775,000 in May and 2,700,000 in June.

An appropriations subcommittee early this week lopped $150,000,000 from the president's request, and administration lieutenants were not overly hopeful that the house would restore that amount.

Plan New Formula

Republican leaders were uncertain whether they could obtain the support of enough anti-administration Democrats in the house to block a five-month appropriation, but their demands for prompt changes in relief policy paralleled plans of a number of Democratic senators.

Senator Byrnes (D-S-C) called his special relief committee together to continue writing a new formula for relief distribution.

Byrnes and his colleagues hoped the committee could agree on a formula in time to insert it into the pending appropriation bill.

There was also considerable sentiment on the committee for including provisions against "politics in relief."

Senate committees pushed ahead with inquiries into the qualification of Harry Hopkins to be secretary of commerce and Prof. Felix Frankfurter to be a supreme court justice.

Hopkins, former federal relief director, was called back before the commerce committee for further testimony on political activities by WPA employees. Frankfurter left Harvard classroom to appear before a judiciary subcommittee, which yesterday heard witnesses in opposition to his appointment.

Truckmen Cleaning Up Congestion as 7-Day Strike Ends

Boston—(AP)—Rapid progress was reported today as returning truckmen pushed a cleanup of the port congestion left by a seven-day strike of 5,700 drivers.

Shipping officials predicted a return to normal conditions along the waterfront by Monday.

Announcement of an increase in trucking rates followed quickly upon formal conclusion of the strike through the signing of a four-point stipulation between the drivers' union, an A.F. of L. affiliate, and the owners.

The pact jumped drivers' wages $2 a week to $39 in the top classification, retained their coveted eight-hour day and provided overtime allowances.

Judge Ryan Puts Check Forger on Probation

Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court yesterday afternoon placed Leslie Welton, 23, 217 E. Calumet street, on probation after sentencing him to from 1 to 3 years in the state reformatory at Green Bay for forgery. He was ordered to make restitution amounting to $47.50.

Welton waived preliminary examination and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was arrested by Detective Sergeant John Duval after cashing a worthless check at a local store.

Conservation Commission Announces 'No Changes' in Ice Fishing Regulations

MADISON—The Wisconsin Conservation commission announced today in response to petitions from Oneida, Calumet, Fond du Lac and Outagamie counties that it would make no change in ice fishing regulations. The petitioners, the commission said, failed to uncover any emergency condition that would warrant overriding an almost statewide ban on ice fishing based on an overwhelming recommendation of county game and fish committees. Director H. W. Mackenzie said the commission believed concessions to a few localities would bring an invasion of outside fishermen to these areas, making more acute the danger of fish depletion. Heading a warning from Dr. Edward Schneeburger, conservation department biologist, who said tests show conclusively that ice fishing is unrestricted, would seriously reduce Wisconsin's supply of fish, the county committees voted here last summer to prohibit winter fishing. The commission held a hearing at Rhinelander after receiving petitions both for and against ice fishing in Oneida county. A report of this meeting was presented to the commission here yesterday with the announcement that no evidence was offered to offset the previous finding that a winter rest period was essential in the interest of maintaining good fishing in the area. The petitioners in the other three counties were interested primarily in obtaining relaxation of regulations affecting Lake Winnebago, for many years probably the most productive of the state's many lakes for ice fishermen. The commission said the general Wisconsin public attitude toward the winter sport again would be solicited at the meeting of the Wisconsin conservation congress next summer.

Rickey Sees Cardinals in Thick of Senior Loop Fight

ST. LOUIS—(4)—That old scer. Branch Rickey, crossed his fingers today and in a burst of optimism predicted his St. Louis Cardinals wouldn't be in the National league cellar when the 1939 baseball season closes.

"A guy where from first place to seventh," he prophesied, "re-servicing last place for the Philadelphia Phillies. Wary of climbing over on limbs ever since the Gashouse Gang shuffled home a week sixth in 1938 to upset his rosy predictions, Rickey almost added an "it" to that wide-range forecast.

The Cardinal vice-president pinned considerable hope on comebacking Paul "Daffy" Dean, Morton Cooper and Tom Sunkel—two right handers and one southpaw hurler, respectively.

"Those three men might convert our mound staff into a pennant winner," he ventured. "If they have good seasons, we should have one of the best pitching staffs in the business."

"Paul Dean showed remarkable improvement late last season. Cooper has been around our organization for years and ought to be ready to deliver. Sunkel had a great year with Atlanta last season, and is confident he is ready to win in the National league."

Naming no names, Rickey hinted the Cards miss the likes of Dizzy Dean. "One important feature we miss in our pitching is an inspirational 'bell weather,'" he confided. "That is, a standout winner to instill confidence in the rest of the staff when morale begins to bog down."

All told, Rickey declared, "success for the pitchers and our second baseman could easily bring us a pennant."

He thinks other infield positions are safe, with slugger Johnny Mize on first, Don Gutteridge at third and Jimmy Brown at shortstop.

Rickey also foresees no trouble from Joe Medwick, Enos Slaughter, Pepper Martin and Terry Moore in the outfield. And if Don Padgett wants the job, it will be between Mickey Owen and him for the catching post.

TONIGHT'S GAMES

8:30—Wire Works versus Lutz Ice.

9:30—Merchants versus Elm Tree.

APPLETON MERCHANT basketball team, which last week upset the Town Taxis in the City league at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, will attempt to topple the Elm Tree Bakery team in the feature game of tonight's program. It is scheduled for 9:30.

The Merchants are composed of Appleton High school cagers of the last couple seasons with a few boys from the Older Boy league, and appear to have hit their stride in recent starts. In last week's game, Don Powers and Don Parule were hitting the hoop regularly and together got 11 goals and 4 free throws. Volkman, a guard, got another five goals and a gift shot.

The Bakers will show a veteran outfit which last year won the city title as the Fox River Paper company. Among the Bakers are Karl Lilleg, forward, Cliff Burton, center, Karl Kreick, center, and Mark Catlin, guard.

The evening's games will open with the Y.M.C.A. meeting the Town Taxis and the former slated to win because of its height. Last week the Y turned on the heat to blast the Wire Works, 49 to 27. Four members of the Y team each got four goals.

In the 8:30 game, the Wires and Lutz Ice will meet. The Wires have won two and dropped four being badly handicapped by the loss of Ken Slattery who has a broken shoulder as result of a skiing injury.

Expect Young Pros to Take Golf Honors During the Year

BY GEORGE R. JACOBUS
President, Professional Golfers' Association.

SARASOTA, FLA.—(4)—Many of the young professional golfers who have been building up their games during the past few years will reach the top during 1939. They will be battling the long-established stars for the major titles and I look for one of them to capture one or both of the two coveted crowns, the national open and national P. G. A.

There are several who have proven they are not just flashes but have the shots, the courage and the endurance to weather the tests of these two major classics. I refer to such youngsters as Sam Snead, Dick Metz, Ben Hogan, Henry Picard, Byron Nelson, Victor Ghezzi and "Jug" McSpaden.

Of course, we cannot overlook Ralph Guldahl's ability to repeat in the open or to take the pro crown, but the odds are greatly against any player making it three in a row.

Both the youngsters and the veterans will have the added incentive of winning a place on the 1939 Ryder cup team, which will meet the British in this country. The battle for places which began during 1938 will grow hotter during 1939. Dates and site of the international matches will be announced in the near future.

Of the amateurs, Willie Turnesa and Charlie Yates are by far the outstanding contenders for the amateur title. Although there is a great possibility of an unknown may beat them out. As for the women's title, I would say there is a big chance it will be taken by a "dark horse" in 1939, but we cannot overlook the outstanding supremacy of Patty Berg and Mrs. Estelle Page.

Golf as a whole should be greatly stimulated by the upturn in general business. The game no longer is considered a luxury, and people who once thought they could not afford to play now find it a joy.

Expect Young Pros to Take Golf Honors During the Year

the game no more costly than other sports or amusements. It is the hope of our body that in the near future schools and colleges will recognize the importance of providing expert professional instruction in the game their students can play and enjoy throughout their lives. We offer the facilities of our organization to acquaint these institutions with the benefits which the game provides, not only during school days but as long as they live.

The high calibre of players breaking through to the top ranks and the efforts to be made by the Professional Golfers' association to develop more and better amateur golfers, combined with brighter business prospects, will give golf its greatest year.

Kurtsinger Wants To Ride Stagehand Against War Admiral

Louisville, Ky.—(4)—Charley Kurtsinger, the "Flying Dutchman" of the turf, wants to ride Stagehand against War Admiral in the Widener cup race at Miami, Fla., March 4.

Kurtsinger, who lost the jockey job on War Admiral when owner Samuel D. Riddle decided to get another boy, also said in an interview today he still believes he can ride the Admiral to victory over Seabiscuit.

Charley was aboard War Admiral when the Riddle ace was beaten in November by the "Biscuit" in a match race. That was his last ride on the Admiral.

Kurtsinger, disappointed because Riddle ousted him as the Admiral's jockey, announced Monday he had "temporarily" retired as a rider after 15 years and was considering becoming a trainer, like Earl Sande, the conditioner of Stagehand.

The little 32-year old jockey defended his ride in the Seabiscuit race by saying he rode as good a race as he ever did and that "War" said.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Iola at Manawa.
Wega at Waupaca.
Marion at Amherst.

Manawa High school basketball team, in the driver's seat in the Central Wisconsin conference, will go after its fourth straight victory Friday night at Manawa when it battles Iola. The Wolves took lone possession of the top rung last week when they defeated Waupaca, undefeated previous to the game. The margin was 19 to 15.

Iola, winner in one game and loser in one, isn't expected to give much opposition but that's how upsets occur. Iola was idle last week and will be playing its first game after a long vacation.

Waupaca will be at home to Weyauwega in the other feature game this week. The teams are tied for second honors and added to that there is a great amount of rivalry. Wega has the stuff to beat the Potato Diggers, especially if the guarding happens to be lax. Last week Wega mauled Amherst, 28 to 18.

In the other game, Marion goes to Amherst and hopes to get out of the cellar. Marion has dropped two games in two conference starts.

Admiral didn't have it that day, although he was trained well. "Whenever a horse loses, the jockey has to take the blame, but I have no apology to make," he said.

Release of Tom Mooney Is No Indorsement of His Beliefs

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The communists will take the bows for Tom Mooney's liberation, but the real hero and winner is George Spelvin, the average American. Mr. Spelvin released a prisoner who frankly admits a rule which, in similar circumstances, would have shot Tom Mooney for the expression of his political beliefs. Mr. Spelvin thereby vindicated not Mooney but himself and American beliefs rather than the beliefs of Mooney's comrades. The average American acted to protect his own rights, and the pardon was a repulse not only for Mooney's own adherents and exploiters but the Nazi-fascists, who think alike with them under different labels.

The long crusade to turn Mooney out of San Quentin and heal a sore on the American system was won by Americans who hate communism and whom Mooney's political comrades hate and revile. Indeed, to the communists, Mooney in prison, even in the privileged status which he enjoyed for years, was more valuable than Mooney himself. At the same time he was a reproach to all believers in the American system and an implied threat to their liberties. If the communists alone had made the fight he would still be in San Quentin, if not long dead by hanging.

But Mooney, free, is still a radical in deep sympathy with Moscow and an admirer of Josef Stalin, and not a leader or spokesman of American labor. Fortunately for him, most Americans resented his imprisonment on the ground that it violated their beliefs, not his. They may resist any attempt on his part to assume that his pardon was an indorsement of his career before he went to prison or his political activities since.

Even while he was still in prison—with a key in his pocket, so to speak, out on parole at any time—Mooney expressed admiration for Stalin and, while demanding vindication and release with honor, defended the slaughter of the political opposition in Moscow. They were enemies of the state, said he, and so deserved any punishment the state chose to inflict for its protection. Trotsky, he said, had betrayed the revolution. Mooney had had the benefit of a form of trial, at least, farcical though it may have been, but the same idealist who condemned that farce adjudged Trotsky guilty without any trial and, consistently, would have sent him to the firing squad, the approximate fate of enemies of the state.

Expressed Contempt For Fellow Prisoners

And, for the consideration of those who may be asked to accept on Feb. 13 to which the legionnaires will be invited.

The committee in charge Monday evening consisted of Mrs. L. H. Huijbregt, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Paul Gennigen and Mrs. A. J. Neumeyer.

Milton Luecker of Lincoln, Neb., is spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Luecker.

John Koerth is a patient at Belin Memorial hospital at Green Bay. Emil Seljan left Tuesday for Chicago where he will be employed.

Darlene Jane Reese celebrated her sixth birthday anniversary Wednesday in the presence of 30 classmates and friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Toebe of Green Bay were also present.

"Education" was the theme of Tuesday evening's Woman's club program. The general subject of education was discussed by Principal C. H. Wileman of the public school. The members also enjoyed a talk on fire hazards by Fire Chief Paul Herr. The girls' trio and the boys' quartet of the public school sang several vocal selections.

During the business meeting which followed the program it was decided that the Brillion club will join the county federation of women's clubs.

The committee in charge of the program consisted of the Mesdames Henry Horn, chairman, William Abel, T. B. Inglis, P. N. Herr, Fred Krause, Reinhardt Kanter and Arthur Radloff.

According to History . . .

WILL BE A YEAR OF GREAT PROSPERITY

HISTORY has a way of repeating itself. Through the years, prosperity cycles occur at stated intervals with unfailing regularity. The following statistical data reveals a promise of continued repetition, with 1939 as the big prosperity year.

During the past 100 years, American business has reached its peak point every ten years, AND THOSE YEARS HAVE ALWAYS FALLEN ON THE YEARS ENDING IN "9."

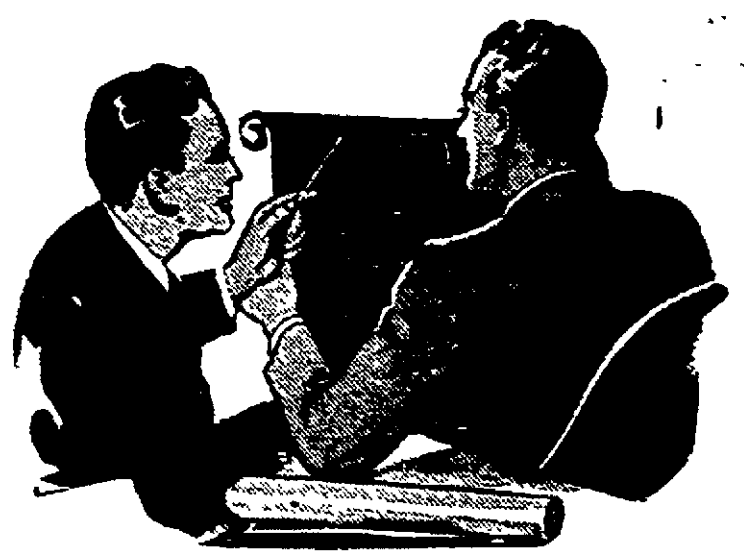

1839 - 1849 - 1859 - 1869 - 1879
1889 - 1899 - 1909 - 1919 - 1929

In every one of these years, American prosperity reached new high levels.

If this year is an exception — if prosperity does not reach a new ten-year peak in 1939—a 100 year record will have been broken.

In the face of the strong recovery signs and sentiments now current throughout most industries, it is more than probable — it is quite likely — that 1939 will yank us right out of the so-called "repression" and put us up on a prosperity plane such as we have not enjoyed for 10 years.

In our own business, every indication points to the continued upswing of home construction which, in 1938, reached an all-time record. This can mean only one thing: increasing demand with consequent higher material prices this coming spring — and, in all probability, there will be a shortage of skilled labor with a consequently higher wage scale.

Boake Carter to Give Lecture at Menasha School

Twin City Emergency Society Will Sponsor Commentator's Talk

Menasha — Boake Carter, radio commentator and newspaper columnist, who believes that the "key to the future lies in this world, not the Old World," will discuss "Free Speech on the News" at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, Jan. 21, in the Menasha high school auditorium under the auspices of the Twin City Emergency society for the benefit of the society's welfare fund.

Carter who joined the staff of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin in 1924 as well as engaging in freelance work, inaugurated a daily column in the Philadelphia Daily News in 1932. He made his radio debut as a news commentator over Philadelphia station and the Lindbergh kidnapping in March of that year afforded him his network debut.

At present Carter is writing a daily column which is syndicated in many newspapers throughout the United States.

In his talk, Carter will discuss "behind the scenes in broadcasting" to show with what problems a news commentator contends. His talk will also contain candid comment on issues of the day.

Tickets for the lecture went on sale this week at Barnett's Drug store. Mrs. J. H. Kimberly heads the finance committee in charge of the lecture and Mrs. S. N. Pickard is in charge of publicity.

The sponsorship of the Boake Carter lecture by the Emergency society opens its project activity for 1939. Local welfare projects which include everything from paying for X-rays, dental care, hospitalization and the like to purchase of a fracture bed which may be used by any needy person upon request of the physician, are financed through funds obtained from such projects as the lecture.

Board Explains Work; Aldermen Express Approval

State Elementary Supervisor Attends Joint Meeting; Mayor Absent

Menasha — Members of the Menasha council heard an explanation of the actions taken by the board of education given by William Kellett, president of the board, received answers to questions concerning points brought up at recent sessions and individually expressed their approval of the members of the board at a meeting held Wednesday night at the high school.

Mayor W. H. Jensen did not attend the meeting. Aldermen C. J. Oberweiser, Walter O'Brien and William Karrow also were absent but the seven other aldermen, City Clerk Walter J. Dougherty and City Attorney Edward C. McKenzie were present.

R. S. Ihlenfeldt, Madison, state supervisor of elementary education, attended the meeting as a representative of the state department of education. He said that John Callahan would have attended the meeting in person except that it was necessary to take Mr. Callahan to the Mayo clinic.

Within His Power
"There apparently are two points to the discussion," Mr. Ihlenfeldt pointed out. "Did the board have the authority to spend the money and was the expenditure a wise one?" He declared that the board was doing no differently than in other sections of the state and that the board had been within its powers in its action. "I don't know if the expenditure was the wisest one but I don't see any reason to criticize," he declared in speaking about the public address system. He added that he recently visited a union free high school of 180 students near Kenosha and a sound system had been installed there.

Mr. Ihlenfeldt went on to point out that the school board receives state aid and that if the state department felt the money was being squandered the aid would be withheld. The department has withheld aid elsewhere in the past. Mr. Ihlenfeldt declared that he would report that there was no reason why state money should not be sent to Menasha in the future as in the past.

In presenting his remarks, William Kellett president of the board, expressed the hope that differences between the two departments would be cleared out and that both could start with a new understanding. He pointed out the competitive struggle for jobs among the youth of today and declared that the intention of the board is to open every possible avenue of instruction, leadership and understanding so that the graduates will have a better chance to secure work in which they will be happy.

Explains Finances
Mr. Kellett said that estimated receipts from state aid, tuition and other sources are included when the board makes up its budget request to the council. Those receipts are difficult to estimate accurately but the board has promised not to overrun the budget. This year receipts have run higher than the estimate and the board has determined what would be a good investment of the money and has spent it, he said.

Necessary projects considered by the board have included painting of school buildings, carpeting the aisles of the auditorium, purchase of additional chairs and tables, additional equipment for the commercial department in order to train the students properly for jobs, gymnasium equipment, bicycle racks, public address system, and weather stripping. In each case the board has been practically unanimous in agreeing to the actions.

The public address system was one of the items purchased with the surplus funds. Mr. Kellett pointed out that the system did not cost $2,600 but approximately $1,700.

Recalls Precedent
Mr. Kellett pointed out that the board has acted similarly in the past. Last year when there was a surplus the board ordered that the money be used for the new school furnace and a quantity of fill material. E. F. Dornbrook, board member, later suggested it might be interesting to see who made the motion to purchase the stokers and thus spend the extra money.

Touching briefly on the condition of the building, Mr. Kellett stated that the board will not return money to either the contractor or the architect until corrections are made at the school. Although the repair work has been slow in starting, Mr. Kellett believed that the reputation of the contractor is such that the work will be done.

A second check on satisfactory completion is the surety bond and steps have been taken to insure performance. The board has set aside $1,500 to return to the contractor and $700 to return to the architect on completion of the work. Also set aside is another $300 insurance settlement for a small fire during the construction of the school.

Mr. Kellett quoted from Wisconsin statutes regulating school boards to show that money once raised and appropriated to the board of education can be spent only by the board, regardless of whether the fiscal year has expired or not. Opinions of the attorney general on similar arguments have upheld the school board.

System Demonstrated
Mr. Kellett discussed the advantages of a sound system and pointed out how differently subject matter is presented to school children today in comparison with years ago. Regular state-authorized programs offer educational service which the board could not afford to give locally. Better schools throughout the country are using public address systems to augment instruction. A demonstration of the system followed the meeting.

The public address system originally was included in the plans for the school but was not included in the original budget. It was added later when the board learned of the system and its advantages.

Mr. Younger also declared that the schools were city property and no one ever had been denied use of the school. The St. Paul's C.Y.O. uses Butte des Morts school every Tuesday night. Since the school was placed there to ston the damage, M. J. Grode declared that he had visited the school and there was no damage as far as he could see.

Mr. Younger also declared that the schools were city property and no one ever had been denied use of the school. The St. Paul's C.Y.O. uses Butte des Morts school every Tuesday night. Since the school was placed there to ston the damage, M. J. Grode declared that he had visited the school and there was no damage as far as he could see.

for the school but was cut out to meet the PWA limit of $600,000. Alderman Tuchscherer pointed out that the school board at that time had approved the system and the present board was carrying out that program.

In the general discussion that followed, the aldermen expressed their approval of the board. Scanton pointed out that he had questioned the legality of the purchase without council approval. He also said he regretted that the two groups were still as far apart as before because the mayor was not at the meeting.

Alderman Philip Michalkiewicz pointed out that the board should have met at the council chambers in order to satisfy the public. He pointed out that the council had not come to argue but to listen and could have listened just as well at the council chambers. Mr. Kellett replied that all of the records of the school and he preferred to have the aldermen out at the school where the council actually inspect the subjects being discussed. Alderman Tuchscherer agreed that the school was the proper place for the meeting and pointed out that the meeting was open to the public. About 35 persons in addition to the aldermen attended the meeting.

Will Stop Leak
Alderman Earl Sauter asked about the "two swimming pools" at the school and Mr. Kellett declared that the leak will be corrected within a week with a guarantee that there will be no more leakage.

In response to a question, F. B. Yodner, superintendent of schools, said that the "bow and arrow" club at Butte des Morts school was a regular part of the vocational school program. Some damage was done to the canvas was not heavy enough to stop the arrows but since then 15 bales of hay have been placed there to ston the damage. M. J. Grode declared that he had visited the school and there was no damage as far as he could see.

Mr. Younger also declared that the schools were city property and no one ever had been denied use of the school. The St. Paul's C.Y.O. uses Butte des Morts school every Tuesday night. Since the school was placed there to ston the damage, M. J. Grode declared that he had visited the school and there was no damage as far as he could see.

Alderman Grode declared he felt things had been explained fairly and that the council had put the board in as custodians and that they were doing a good job. Mr. Kellett had asked for harmony and Mr. Grode asked him to suggest how the council could obtain harmony for its sessions.

Merchant Squad Defeats Papers In Close Battle

Scores 1-Point Victory in Neenah City League Contest

Neenah — A capacity crowd filled Roosevelt school gymnasium last night as the Neenah Merchants scored a 1-point victory over the Sawyer Papers, 20 to 19, in the Neenah Basketball league. Draheims recorded a close 19 to 17 win over the News-Times, and the Business Men drubbed the Hewitt Machines 29 to 13.

Victory in the first game actually wasn't decided until after the contest had closed. With the score deadlocked, 19-all, James Christoferson, Merchant guard, was fouled as the final whistle sounded. He made one out of the two free throws.

The Papers had held the lead until the closing minutes of the game. They commanded a 5 to 3 margin at the end of the first quarter as well as a 13 to 11 lead at halftime. The Merchants pared the margin down a point at the end of the third quarter, 16 to 15.

Draheims Win
W. Handler was high scorer in the game. He netted five field goals. H. Bunker paced the Papers with three baskets and a free throw.

Draheims and the News-Times also staged a nip and tuck battle, the Draheims moving into the lead in the final minutes of the last quarter when Block and Hawkinson each counted 2-pointers to give the Sports team a win. Story of Jerusalem

IV--SORROW FOR THE JEWS

After getting over the first walls around Jerusalem, the Romans made another attack and went over the second wall barrier.

Now the Jewish soldiers were left with only one stronghold— Herod's Temple. Inside the walls of the Temple, they might stand off a large army.

Titus was afraid to attack at once, but believed he might starve the enemy into surrender. Day after day, he waited. The Jews grew weak with hunger, but they would not give in.

At length the Romans moved forward their towers and other siege engines, and placed them near the mighty walls of the Temple grounds. It looked as though this move would bring victory, but suddenly there were earthquakes of a sort, little quakes produced by clever men. The Jews had made tunnels under the grounds, and had placed pitch, sulphur and other substances in the tunnels. As a result there came explosive fires, and the towers toppled to the ground.

The Romans spent weeks repairing their siege engines. Then they moved them forward, and made a quick attack. This time they were successful. They passed the walls, and won their way.

Scenes of horror followed as the brave defenders were struck down. They had wounded Titus, and no mercy was given to them.

Herod's Temple, of which the Jews had been so proud, was turned into a ruin, but before the fires were lighted, the Romans took out treasures.

Back to Rome went Titus, and there he was cheered by the people. He had brought home golden treasure, and was honored as a conqueror.

That was a day for the Romans, but the loss of the capital city meant sadness for the Jews. Rome ruled. Another rebellion 60 years later was put down by the Roman masters, and we are told that every house and other building in the city was destroyed. A new Roman city went up on the site of Jerusalem. In the new city, no Jew was allowed to come, on pain of death.

When a Roman emperor turned Christian, Jerusalem became a center for visits of Christian pilgrims. Many events in Christ's life, including the crucifixion, had taken place in Jerusalem, and that is why it grew to be a holy city of the Christians.

Three centuries later, new masters obtained power in Jerusalem. Mohammedans under the leader Omar captured the city.

Jerusalem became a holy city of the Mohammedans. In their religion, Jesus is honored as a prophet, not so great (they think) as Mohammed, but important.

A beautiful mosque, or Mohammedan church, was built over the site of the old Jewish temples. The new mosque was called "Dome of the Rock," or "Mosque of Omar."

Robert Taylor and Wallace Beery co-star for the first time in "Stand Up and Fight," a story dealing with the rivalry between the early rail and stagecoach lines. The two stage three battles in the picture, dividing the decisions, win, lose and draw. Florence Rice is the leading lady.

By Jimmie Fidler
Hollywood-Settin' Around (Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer): Just one subject of conversation on this lot today — the fine performance Norma Shearer has turned in in "Idiot's Delight." One after another, lot workers who have seen the rough cut assured me that it is her "best picture" — that it will skyrocket her to the top again as a great box-office star. Pardon me if I do a bit of gloating.

Not long ago, in attempting to analyze the reasons underlying Norma Shearer's apparent decline in popularity, I blamed the lavishness of the productions which have been given her these past five or six years. I argued that the million-dollar backgrounds, the dazzling costumes and the vast mobs of players were overshadowing Norma Shearer, that a valuable personality was being sacrificed to "size." I said that she was being placed on the spot because, having been identified with lavishness, each of her pictures had to surpass all of its predecessors in swank in order to meet the public's expectations, and I protested that even the studio publicity stressed the area of her sets rather than her own ability and charm.

I got sat on—hard!
And now, once again cast in a picture which she can dominate, Norma is proving herself the same compelling personality that the fans loved. "Idiot's Delight" is going to be her triumph, not the triumph of an art director. And I, for one, am hoping that Metro and Norma will realize, as they see her fans flock back to the box office, that great stars can't afford to play second fiddle to a marble staircase.

CHATTER ABOUT METRO IDOLS: Wonder if it's Hedy Lamarr's vibrant loveliness that makes all the other glamorous girls seem so colorless these days? Victor McLaglen's chest still rates as mighty — mightily near the belt line. Surest indication Garbo's slipping: there hasn't been a new joke about her foot-size in months. It's almost as much of a shock to see Frank Morgan in a beret as it is to see Tarzan Weissmueller in a Tux. Look alike: Judy Garland and Leni Lynn. Virginia Bruce's marriage to Jack Gilbert wasn't happy, but she did have a wonderful glow in those days. Nelson Eddy without Jeanette MacDonald is like ham without eggs. Incongruity note: Mickey Rooney is cultivating fuschias for the next flower show.

I saw an amazing thing this morning on the "Broadway Serenade" set, which represents a grass-carpeted garden. Hazel Hurst, the blind girl who made headlines some months ago when English authorities refused to admit her seeing-eye dog, came on the set by invitation of Jeanette MacDonald. Babe, her famous dog, was guiding her steps. She led her confidently across the big sound stage until she came to a strip of artificial grass. That was something new — and she tried it cautiously, first one paw, then another. She drew back, puzzled and alarmed, and held her mistress motionless. Then Jeanette walked forward — ON THE GRASS — to greet her guest, and Babe's eyes fairly headlined relief. If it was safe for one lady, it would be safe for another. Without further hesitation, she led the way into the garden.

In the same picture, Lew Ayres plays a happy-go-lucky musician whose pet trick is sailing his hat across the room, to alight, unerringly, on its destined peg, hook, or what-have-you. As a hat-flipper, Lew is far from perfection and dozens of takes have been required for the scoring of each of his bullseyes. This morning they shot the one scene in which he is supposed to miss, and, therefore, the one scene they expected to get in a single take. But it took two. Lew's first effort was a perfect ringer.

I've never seen the importance of what I like to call the "happy" spirit better exemplified than it was today on the "Song of the West" set. For six days that company had been trying to shoot one of the key scenes in the picture, with Nelson Eddy and Virginia Bruce leading a mob of saloon rowdies in singing "America" — and for six days things had been going wrong. This morning, nerve strain reached a peak. The director snapped at the crew, the crew snapped back and even the extras were on edge. Suddenly Nelson Eddy called a halt, sat down at the piano and began to sing Russian folk songs. A bit play-er started to do sit-down-and-stomp dances. The impromptu show lasted only a few minutes. Everyone went back to work with a smile — and the scenes clicked off like clock-work.

Spencer Tracy's six-year-old Susan was on the sidelines today while he played a torrid love scene with Hedy Lamarr. "How did you like it?" he asked, and Susan looked grave. "Fine," she said — "but I don't think mama will!" (Copyright, 1939)

Waushara County Agent Is Speaker at Waupaca
Waupaca — Emil A. Jorgenson, Waushara county agricultural agent, and former resident of this community, was the guest speaker at the Conservation league Monday evening, discussing reforestation projects as an aid to stopping wind erosion and helping agriculture and wild game. His talk was accompanied with moving pictures which he had taken during the last few years in Waushara county where more than one and one-half million trees have been planted to carry on the project. A committee for furthering reforestation in this county was appointed in addition to the regular committees for the year and is under the chairmanship of Ray Pinkerton. Assisting him will be Victor Quick, county agent, Harold Porter, agricultural instructor of the high school, Ralph High, Roy Rasmus and L. J. Stadler. The chairman stated that if the conservation league can accomplish in the next ten years what Waushara county has done in the last ten, he will be well pleased. The committee will meet Wednesday with Clyde Smith, chief forester for the state nursery at Wisconsin Rapids, and Fred Trenk, extension forester from the agricultural college, Madison.

Crop Reports

Chicago—(P)—Fractional gains of as much as 1 cent could not be maintained in the wheat market today and prices slipped lower late in the session, closing irregular.

Some of the selling was based on the less pessimistic tone of crop reports from some sections of the winter wheat belt. Security price declines discouraged buying of grains.

Receipts were: wheat 5 cars, corn 75, oats 47.

New York—(P)—The new year decline of the stock market gathered speed today after a brief pause for perusal of President Roosevelt's arms message.

Even the aircraft shares—facing the presidential proposals for a $300,000,000 increase in spending for army planes—resumed the down hill slide when a forenoon rally failed to hold.

Selling was heavy at times. Transactions, approximating 1,300,000 shares.

Many market followers took the decline as a resumption of the recent trend, rather than clear-cut reaction to the arms message, which had been foreshadowed in the budget and the president's message to congress.

Conspicuous in the decline were such war favorites as Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Douglas, Sperry, Du Pont, U. S. Steel, Anacosta Copper and Boeing. The whole list felt the selling impact as leading shares barged to new lows for 1939.

Rails and other corporate bonds moved lower with stocks. Most commodities remained in a narrow price range. Wheat at Chicago ended 2 cents a bushel higher to 1 lower. Corn was unchanged to 1 down.

Council Moves to Replace Machine Damaged in Crash

Will Make Purchases if Repair of Present Truck Proves Costly

New London—The city council at a special meeting last night voted to advertise for bids for a new 14 to 2-ton truck, chassis and cab only, to replace the city truck damaged when it tipped over Tuesday morning if repairs should prove too costly. The damaged truck, two years old, will be checked for alignment and repaired at a cost of $135 if found satisfactory. If seriously out of alignment the machine will be offered in trade on a new truck.

Aldermen last night, in need of a replacement truck as soon as possible, sought to trade the truck for a new machine for a difference of $447 without heavy duty tires but City Attorney Putnam ruled the purchase price of the new machine, quoted at $924 would require bids. The bids will be opened at an adjourned meeting Jan. 24.

Reporting the meeting with the state highway commission at Madison Monday, Putnam said the commission agreed to pay all costs of clearing the east end of the floodway channel and removing obstructions west of Highway 45. The commission asked for general plans of the work and the contractor's agreement.

Will Prepare Papers
City Engineer Robert M. Connelly and the contractor will be called to a meeting in the city Saturday to arrange the papers for approval of the council at its regular meeting Tuesday evening.

In regard to the narrow bridge on Highway 45 and its probable effect on floodwaters, the commission told the New London officials that a new bridge at that point has been under consideration for a long time as a safety measure and will be taken care of in the regular order of new construction.

Mayor E. W. Wendlandt has long been without a gavel as presiding officer at council meetings so last night Alderman William Behm from the Fifth ward presented the gavel with a specially constructed mayor he made himself with the aid of a fellow craftsman, George Krueger. The head of the gavel consists of laminated maple, walnut and cedar in natural finish with a handle turned from walnut.

New London Band Boosters Raise Fund for Scholarships

New London—Sufficient funds have been raised by the New London Band Boosters for two $20 summer music scholarships and the group decided at its regular meeting this week to begin work for the purchase of a new musical instrument for the high school band. For that purpose a public card party will be held Wednesday evening, Jan. 25, at the high school music room.

The scholarships, which will pay $20 of the approximately $35 required for a 3-weeks study course at the summer music clinic at University of Wisconsin, will be awarded to two members of the high school senior band on merits earned during the year through a point system conducted by M. S. Zahrt, band director. One scholarship will be awarded to the member of the band with the highest number of points and the other to the senior class musician who has the greatest number of points among members of the graduating class.

In charge of the card party are the following committee: tickets, Mrs. C. C. Honke; Mrs. Ernest Huber, Mrs. H. Kohle; lunch, Mrs. John Sanders, Mrs. Oscar Zuege, Mrs. A. L. Warnecke; tables and cards, Mrs. Leonard Borchardt, Mrs. E. J. Schoenrock.

Because curtailment of the school budget will not allow the purchase of needed instruments, according to Mr. Zahrt, the boosters plan to raise money for a new French horn or alto clarinet.
